Instincts vs. Learned Behaviors

Instincts are behaviors that animals are born knowing how to do. Learned behaviors are taught by others or an animal's own trial and error. If each behavior below is an instinct or a learned behavior, write "instinct" or "learned" and give three other appropriate facts.

INSTINCT		LEARNED BEHAVIOR
A dog barking at someone	A baby crawling	A fish swimming	A child learning their birthday facts
Food falling in a bowl for a mouse	A hand grasping	A bear cub hibernating	A baby crawling towards a toy
A spider spinning a web	A chick learning to walk to the feed trough	A beaver building a dam	A bear hibernating

Learned Behaviors

A learned behavior is a skill that an animal develops after it is born.

- Genes do not control learned behaviors.
- are not passed from parents to their offspring

Humans and animals learn from adults and their experience.

- Mother bear shows her cubs how to fish or find berries.
- Bird may teach its babies to fly.
- A young horse may learn to stay away from an electric fence.
- Knowing a language.
- knowing how to ride a bike.

Examples of Inherited and Learned Behaviors

Inherited Traits	Learned Behaviors
A girl had brown eyes	A girl can read Spanish
A boy has long fingers	A boy can play the piano
A bird eats seeds	A bird knows where to find a feeder.
A dog has pointed ears	A dog knows the sound of its owner's voice.

Like learned behaviors, some physical traits are not inherited.

- If you cut your hand and get a scar
- A bird with a broken wing
- A tree may be bent by the wind or scarred by lightning
